Clemson vs. South Carolina

Today's Features

6 Rodney Williams

Clemson's winningest quarterback has led Clemson to 30 victories as the starting quarterback over the last four years, more than any signal caller in ACC history. Being a winner can be linked to his family upbringing in Irmo, SC, as Mickey Plyler explains.

49 Clemson's Greatest Players

Clemson has had some standout performers over the years. Tim Bourret takes a look at Clemson's finest players by position in this eight-page section.

54 Athletic Academic Endowment

Many Clemson students are benefitting from the Athletic Academic Endowment scholarship. Willie Shearer discusses the program whereby non-athletes at Clemson benefit from basketball and football victories.

55 University Feature

This is the centennial academic year at Clemson University and there will be many activities forthcoming. Sandy Woodward summarizes the spring schedule.

57 Henry Carter

After five knee operations Henry Carter might have the Clemson record for injuries in a career. Despite the setbacks, Carter has been a solid contributor on both sides of the ball since 1984. Annabelle Vaughan profiles this senior fullback.

65 Richard Smith

Horace Grant was an All-America basketball player for the Tigers from Sparta, GA. His success led to Richard Smith's decision to come to Clemson on a football scholarship as Smith was a Grant comrad in Sparta. Dave Mullaney takes us through Smith's career at Clemson.

67 Frank Deluliis

85 Senior Spotlights

There are 28 seniors on this year's football team. All have not been starters this season, but have been major contributors to Clemson's 32 wins since 1985. Annabelle Vaughan takes a look at six hard-working seniors.

86 Senior Sponsors

Each year in the program of their last home game, Clemson seniors honor a lady who has been special in their lives.

115 This Day in Tiger Football

One of the most memorable plays in Clemson football history took place on this day 11 years ago. Foster Senn takes us back in history to the Nov. 19, 1977 game against South Carolina.

116 Tiger Olympians

Clemson was well represented at the 1988 Olympics. Sheri West discusses some of the experiences and accomplishments turned in by Mitzi Kremer, Bruce Murray and Mike Milchin.

On the Cover: Rodney Williams is Clemson's career leader in completions and passing yardage. But, what he will always be remembered for is his winning attitude. Jim Moriarty is the author of this week's cover shot.

ACC Champs Aim For The State Championship

Williams Down The Home Stretch

Veteran quarterback Rodney Williams has performed well in the clutch over the last three seasons. He has led Clemson to nine come-from-behind wins in the fourth quarter during his career and that is one example of his cool under pressure. Another example of his clutch play is his passing stats at the end of the season when conference titles and bowl bids are on the line.

During the last three seasons Williams has completed just 41 percent of his passes before October 25, as he is 149-363 for 2071 yards and 14 interceptions. But after October 25 he is 110-195 for 1555 yards, a .564 completion percentage. Additionally, his passing efficiency prior to October 25 is 87.6 and after that date it is 128.7. Perhaps his November 1 birthday has something to do with it.

Williams has continued the trend this year as he has hit 22-39 for 328 yards, a .564 completion mark since October 25. He had his best day of the year at Maryland last week when he had 203 yards in total offense. It was the first 200-yard day of the year in terms of total offense, and it put him over 5,000 yards for his career, only the second Tiger to do that. Steve Fuller holds the record with 6096.

South Carolina Update

South Carolina enters Saturday's game with an 8-2 record after beating Navy 19-8. With a victory over Clemson, South Carolina would finish its regular-season campaign with nine victories, the second-most wins ever posted by a Gamecock football team. Gamecock Head Coach Joe Morrison's squad owns impressive victories over Georgia (23-10) and N.C. State (23-7).

The Gamecock offense is led by junior quarterback Todd Ellis (6-3, 203). A native of Greensboro, N.C., Ellis has completed 172 of 324 passing attempts (.531) for 2082 yards and eight touchdowns. But he has also thrown 17 interceptions. In his two-game career against Clemson, Ellis is 28 of 52 with one interception for 460 yards and one touchdown.

Ellis's targets include flanker Robert Brooks (6-1, 178, FR) and tight end Carl Platt (5-9, 175, SO). Platt has caught 29 passes for 423 yards and two touchdowns, while Brooks has been the recipient of 28 passes for 412 yards and three touchdowns. The split end for the Gamecocks is Anthony Parlor (6-3, 185, SO), who has been on the receiving end of 10 passes for 140 yards. But Ellis's leading receiver is tailback Harold Green (6-2, 215, JR), who has caught 32 passes for 280 yards.

The Gamecock defense is led by free safety Ron Rabune (6-1, 208, SR), who is Carolina's leading tackler with 98. He also owns one interception and two passes broken up. The other probable starters in the secondary include strong safety Scott Windsor (6-2, 225, JR), left corner Robert Robinson (5-11, 185, SR) and right corner Stephane Williams (5-11, 185, JR). Robinson owns 64 tackles, has broken up 11 passes and has two interceptions.

Seniors in Final Home Game

Twenty-eight seniors will be making their final appearance for the Tigers in Death Valley. They have helped Clemson to a 32-12-2 record overall in the last four seasons, including 21-6-1 against the ACC and 17-6-1 at home. Twenty-three of the 28 have started at least one game and 11 have started at least 20 contests. Sixteen of them have played at least 40 games and three (Rodney Williams, Jeff Bak and Mark Drag) have gotten into every game. Rodney Williams, Donnell Woolford, Jeff Bak and Gene Beasley have all started over 30 games in their Clemson careers. Here is a list of the 28 seniors and their total games played and games started at Clemson:

Ford's Senior Classes

This 1988 class is the first group in Clemson history to go to four bowl games.

The 1988 seniors comprise the first class in Clemson history to go to four bowl games.

Allen has 777 yards in his last six games.

Previously, the senior groups of 1951, 1959, 1979, 1980, 1981, and 1987 had been to three bowls apiece. No class has ever won three bowl games so the 1988 group can do that with a win in the Citrus Bowl on January 2.

The seniors playing in their final home game in Death Valley this Saturday against South Carolina have been a landmark group in many ways. It is also the first Clemson class to win three outright ACC titles. The seniors of 1967 won three ACC titles, but one season (1965), Clemson tied for the title.

The 1988 seniors also have been ranked in the AP poll 35 times heading into this weekend's game and only the seniors of 1984 experienced more with 37. With three polls left, this group could break that mark with a final Top 20 ranking and it would be an all-time Clemson record. It can also tie for the most final AP Top 20 rankings, as this group has two in the bag

Allen ACC Player of the Year Candidate

Terry Allen continued his assault on the Clemson rushing charts last week with 110 yards and two touchdowns in 19 carries against Maryland. Allen has now rushed for 777 yards in the last six games, 129.5 yards per game, and has worked his way into the top 15 in the country in rushing. Allen has now gained at least 100 yards in five of his last six contests, including a high of 167 against North Carolina two weeks ago, a contest in which he broke 18 tackles in 29 rushing attempts.

Allen went over 1,000 yards for the season and over 2,000 yards for his career with the performance against Maryland.

Rodney Williams

By Mickey Plyler

Having grown up with Rodney Williams I can cite many first-hand tales of what Rodney Williams is really like. But, the best way to describe him and the key reason for his success as a quarterback is competitive.

This past summer we were playing a golf match in Myrtle Beach. We were tied going to the 18th hole and our opponents suggested we double the wager.

In true Rodney Williams character he whispered to me, "Mick it is time to turn it up a notch." He birdied the 18th and we won the match.

It is that competitive nature that has allowed Rodney Williams to serve as Clemson's starting quarterback for more games than any other player in the 100-year history of the school. It is that competitive nature that has allowed him to lead Clemson to more wins as the starting signal caller than any other quarterback in Clemson history.

Nine of those wins were contests in which Clemson trailed in the fourth quarter. It is this determination that has allowed him to come back from a disappointing loss at South Carolina to have the greatest bowl game performance (15-24 for 214 yards vs. defending national champion Penn State) ever by a Clemson quarterback.

A high level of maturity and self esteem has allowed Williams to achieve all these things and it is obvious that his family has been a key contributor to these outstanding qualities.

"My family was there before people knew Rodney Williams, they were there when people knew Rodney Williams, and they will be there when everyone forgets Rodney Williams.

"My father has been the biggest influence in my life. He is very competitive and he taught me how to be a competitor. He pushed me, but it was in the right direction. He taught me that it is only a game and to keep everything in perspective.

"My mom has always been there for me," he continued. "Talking to her really helped me through the tough times whether they be in football, school, or a relationship.

"My sister, Kelley, gives me the unexpected boost. You know your mother and father are going to tell how great you are, but she has really gone to war for me over the past several years.

"My girlfriend Joni has kept my head beneath the clouds. She makes sure my highs are not too high and my lows are not too low," he said of his girlfriend of the last eight years.

Rodney Williams was born in Columbia and moved with his family to Spartanburg when he was two years old. The Williams family lived in Spartanburg for 13 years when Rodney got his start in sports. "I first played football when I was six-years-old. We were terrible. I played running back because I was big for my age and I was fast. Yes, that was a long time ago when I was fast," Rodney joked.

In August of 1980, Rodney's family moved to Irmo, a move that Rodney credits for his success. "It was tough at first, but that was the site of my future. That experience made me grow up a little, and the athletic program at Irmo was a key in my development."

As a sophomore at Irmo, Rodney was thrown into the fire and started the first game of the year. "That was an experience. I have never been that nervous before. But once again it was a valuable learning experience."

In his final two seasons at Irmo, Rodney led the Yellow Jackets to a 22-3 record and eight come-from-behind wins. The one high school game that sticks out in his mind was during this junior year when Irmo trailed Brookland-Cayce by 12 points with less than 1:30 to play. "I remember we scored on a long pass with about 1:15 to play and then failed on an on-side kick. Our defense held them and we got the ball back with :15 seconds to go. I threw one pass for about 30 yards to get us down to the 45-yard line and a touchdown pass on the last play of the game to win by one."

After an outstanding high school career and an MVP performance in the North Carolina-South Carolina Shrine Bowl, Rodney was recruited by just about everyone in the country. "It was nice at first. I liked all of the attention that everyone was showing me, but that got old real fast."

Rodney chose Clemson, then like most college freshmen went through what he called "the toughest year of my life." "Being away from home was tough and not getting to play took some adjusting. Everyone goes through it. One year you are a high school All-American and the next you are either holding dummies or you are getting killed by the first team."

On December 29, 1978, Rodney Williams was wearing orange in the Gator Bowl. There he saw Steve Fuller direct the Tigers to a 17-15 win over Woody Hayes's Ohio State Buckeyes.

Almost eight years to the day, Williams was in that same stadium, only this time he was the one doing the directing. It was Williams who led Clemson to a 27-21 victory over Stanford, a game in which he earned MVP honors. "Steve Fuller was my hero. We were both from Spartanburg and, like him, I envisioned myself playing in the 'big game.' I was the one who was leading Clemson to another bowl win. Who would have ever thought this would come true?"

Williams and Bak have started 90 percent of Clemson's plays the last three years.

Clemson fans may have a hard time remembering the last time Rodney did not start as the Tiger quarterback. His career has been long and memorable. He has led Clemson to three straight ACC championships, a 30-10-2 record as a starter, and a fourth bowl game. He has been a part of many big wins throughout his career, including victories over South Carolina, Georgia, North Carolina, Stanford, and Penn State are the first to come to mind. He will also be remembered for his MVP performances in the Gator and Citrus Bowls.

Today's game is the last home contest for the senior and it is appropriate his career end on a big game against South Carolina. Rodney says, however, that his attitude towards South Carolina is not what people would expect. "The South Carolina-Clemson rivalry was a lot bigger to me before I came to Clemson. Before I came to Clemson I hated South Carolina, but now I realize that the players are the same except one wears orange and one wears garnet. I know a lot of players that play for USC and I know that they're just like me. They are only trying to win football games like myself."

Rodney said that he will not know what to expect next year when there is no football. "I really don't think I'll realize how bad I am going to miss all of this until next year. The one thing that I will take with me is the friends that I have made. I will never leave the Clemson family, but I will miss being a vital part of it all."

"I think my experience here will have a great effect on my career in the business world. On the football field, I have to deal with 10 different people's emotions at once in some very pressure-filled situations. It has helped me deal with others and has helped me to be more organized."

Rodney Williams has thrown more passes for more completions and more yards than any other player in Clemson history, but the story of Clemson's all-time winningest quarterback goes far beyond any statistics. His ability to lead Clemson to nine fourth-quarter comeback wins is an example of his leadership.

Perhaps ex-NFL quarterback and CBS commentator Pat Hayden summed Rodney up best when he said:

"Rodney Williams may never play a down of pro football, but he is a great college quarterback. He has done everything asked of him over the past four years. He has come under some criticism because he is not a very flashy player, but he knows how to run the option and he knows how to win football games."

WE'VE GOT SCHOOL SPIRIT!

It's hard to find a bigger booster of South Carolina's schools than Chem-Nuclear. We know there's nothing more vital to our state than giving every child a sound education.

But we're more than cheerleaders. We make a major financial contribution to our schools. Through a special tax on low-level radioactive waste disposal—paid by no other company—we send 6 million dollars a year to public education. That's enough for the salaries of about 245 teachers. We pay 12 million dollars in other state taxes and fees that support State Government, and a special business tax that we pay in Barnwell County is a major part of the school budget there. The taxes paid by Chem-Nuclear's employees on our 11 million dollar payroll also help finance schools.

No one likes taxes. But we look at our contribution to education as an investment that will pay off in skilled workers, informed citizens, and a better South Carolina.

In fact, that investment is so important to us that we do more than send a check—we get involved. Disabled students have landscaping classes on the grounds of our Barnwell facility. We transport deaf students to camp. Equipment given by Chem-Nuclear upgrades science labs at several schools. We sponsor high school economics classes through Junior Achievement. And we make substantial donations to programs for the arts.

The teachers and students of our state are a great team. The school spirit shown by Chem-Nuclear and other South Carolina companies helps make them winners.

University President

This year may be remembered not only as the year Clemson University began its second century, but also as the time when the impact of the Max Lennon era became readily apparent.

When he came to Clemson more than three years ago, Dr. Lennon brought with him some definite ideas about what was needed in order for Clemson to reach its potential: more emphasis on research and the graduate program (the university's greatest potential for growth and immediate economic impact); increased private support for academics; more effort in frontier areas of research to aid South Carolina's traditional industries; a more global perspective in both academic programs and research; and a significant state investment in higher education.

Those were the ideas; now for the reality:

- more than a 60 percent increase in research funding in a single year
- the most successful private fund-raising year ever, with more than a 40 percent increase over last year's record-breaking total
- a landmark experiment in the field of biotechnology, plus research that is breaking new ground in advanced apparel manufacturing, composites, robotics and many other areas
- the addition of international academic programs and research partnerships involving Clemson with institutions in Japan, France, Germany, Italy, Egypt, China, Israel and Great Britain, among others

- a $5-million higher education initiative called the Cutting Edge

But the Lennon agenda is far from completed. The Clemson president sees more challenges, more opportunities, ahead. At a recent address to the faculty, he said, "We must continue to look for new ways to fulfill Clemson's land-grant mission: aggressively recruiting students into areas that are exclusive to Clemson—agriculture, forestry and textiles—and that have more job opportunities than graduates, increasing minority representation in the faculty and administration as well as the student body, and making Clemson more accessible.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation in rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon sees Clemson as still in the process of maturing into a major, comprehensive university with a regional and national reputation in its primary mission areas—science and technology. He has worked hard to bring together the necessary support system by involving not only faculty and staff but also legislators, business leaders and alumni in determining Clemson's future. And the future looks pretty bright. "Clemson is a very exciting place to be right now," he says.

Lennon came to Clemson from Ohio State University, where he had been executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree (1962) and doctorate from N.C. State University. He began his teaching career at N.C. State.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local PTA and the South Carolina Research Authority to the National Dropout Prevention Fund and the International Development Institute.

Last fall, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed earlier this year to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 international conference in Washington.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (26) and Robin (23).

Max Lennon is a major reason Clemson realized a 60 percent increase in research funding last year.

Bobby Robinson

Athletic Director

On March 9, 1985, Clemson University named Bobby Robinson as the ninth athletic director in the school's 96-year history. And since that time, success and prosperity are the words that best describe Robinson's program.

Robinson has had significant successes as a result of his great commitment to being the best in three areas—competition, academics, and facilities. The past three years' results provide evidence of the program's placement among the best in competition, and also prove significant strides are being made in the other two areas.

The 1987 version of the football program will long be remembered for its 10-2 record and the 35-10 Florida Citrus Bowl victory over Penn State. The Tigers finished 10th in the final AP poll, the seventh Top 20 ranking in the past 11 years.

Both major revenue sports, football and men's basketball, were involved in postseason play. In fact, out of 18 sports offered at Clemson, 15 were involved in some sort of postseason play.

The Men's basketball program participated in the NIT, as Cliff Ellis guided the Tigers to their fourth consecutive postseason appearance—the first time in the history of ACC basketball that a team has entered postseason play in the first four years under a new coach. The Lady Tiger basketball team made the NCAA tournament field under first-year coach Jim Davis and had an ACC record 13-game improvement over the previous year.

The surprise story of 1987-88 was the Clemson Tiger soccer team. Seeded 23rd out of 24 teams in the NCAA tournament, the Tigers swept through the field to earn the right to play host to the Final Four. Over 8,300 Tiger fans watched as Clemson defeated San Diego State 2-1 for its second national championship in four years.

Clemson's baseball team won an ACC record tying 54 games and finished 15th in the final poll, while the Clemson golf team was 17th and won the ACC title for the second straight year.

Clemson's men's tennis team was 10th ranked and won its ninth ACC title in 10 years, while the outdoor track team was tied for 15th, its highest NCAA finish ever.

All four teams received bids to the NCAA and finished in the top 20, making Clemson and Texas the only two schools with this honor.

The success of these teams gave Clemson the honor of a number-eight ranking in men's sports and number-28 in women's sports in the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports poll. Ten Clemson teams were ranked in the final top 20.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had another outstanding year. Ninety-seven young men and women had 3.0 or better grade point averages each semester, with seven earning a perfect 4.0 GPA. The football team had two players named to the academic All-ACC team, and four students were named to various Academic All-America teams. Over 30 former Tiger student-athletes received college degrees in the past 12 months.

The commitment to success in academics is further confirmed by the decision to build an academic learning center for student-athletes. Encompassing over 16,000 square feet, the center will feature classrooms, learning labs, and an auditorium, as well as office space for the athletic advising staff, which now has three full-time staff members.

In the area of facilities, Robinson has a record of success and accomplishments second to none. Capital improvements include the indoor tennis facility and the soccer stadium, with the learning center and completion of the baseball stadium scheduled for 1989. Major renovations recently completed include the golf practice area, cross country trail, stadium locker rooms, wrestling practice room, and football coaches meeting rooms. A complete maintenance and irrigation system has also been implemented for all practice fields.

Renovations under way include the new IPTAY/ticket complex at Gate 9 at the football stadium, a nine-lane all-weather track, Jervay Center offices and gymnasium, as well as the coliseum dressing rooms. Without a doubt, Clemson athletic facilities are among the finest in the country.

Administratively, Robinson has instituted policies and procedures that benefit all constituents. Among the changes are the drug testing program, the Student Athlete Assistance Program (SAAP), a staff Policies and Procedures Manual, computerization of the department, the pro agents seminar, as well as the athletic academic scholarship endowment.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 campus departments, serving a viable role to the mission of Clemson University. "Athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends," according to Robinson.

Under the direction of Robinson, the athletic department continues to support the university. Over $900,000 have been contributed to the athletic academic scholarship fund; and band travel equipment and uniforms are funded by athletic dollars. An educational enhancement fund has been coordinated through the efforts of the athletic department and the Athletic Council.

With Robinson's qualifications, it is easy to see why the Clemson athletic program enjoys continued success—he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas of the university, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can as a vital part of the university and the state of South Carolina."

Robinson was graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was the president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department.

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director, and in 1980, he became associate AD. He held that title for four years, and his area of responsibility moved to primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its first ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five finish. Robinson is now a member of the NCAA golf committee and is a member of the CFA Board of Directors.

Head Coach Danny Ford

Danny Ford has spent many years following in the footsteps of legends. As a player and young coach, he worked under the tutelage of the legendary Bear Bryant. Later at Clemson, he stepped into the position once held by "The Legend" himself, Frank Howard.

Last season, Ford led his team to one of the winningest records in Clemson history. He also took his team to the Citrus Bowl where he challenged another legend, Joe Paterno. It was his sixth bowl trip in only nine years as a head coach and his fourth bowl victory in those six trips. All nine years as head coach, his teams have had winning regular season records. With a mark like that, Danny Ford also could soon win the right to be called a legend.

Ford's legacy of success did not begin when he became a head coach, it has followed through his entire affiliation with the game of football. Overall, he has been involved with 20 winning regular seasons in his 21 years of football, and his teams have won over 74 percent of the time.

His success as a head coach is not only evident in his win-loss record, but also in the relationships he has with his players, past and present. He is admired and respected by his players and they enjoy playing for him. This respect is well deserved when you take a look at the list of accomplishments over the past nine seasons:

1. Sixth winningest active coach in America.
2. Only coach in ACC history with over a 70 percent winning percentage, he is currently at .743.
3. Has coached Clemson in six bowl games.
4. Clemson has won four ACC titles during his tenure (81, 82, 86, 87).
5. Has coached five teams that have finished in the final AP Top 20.
6. Has coached 56 All-ACC players, 23 All-Americans and 38 of his former players have been NFL draftees.

This list would be impressive with anyone's name on it, but considering the fact that Ford just turned 40 on April 2, it is phenomenal. Ford's most significant accomplishment, winning the 1981 National Championship, was attained when he was only 33-years-old. Clemson's rising legend is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship.

Ford has recently reached another milestone, he is now the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. He is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. These wins have not been easy ones. Instead, they have come against fierce competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other coach in Clemson history.

Ford has established a new era in football at Clemson University, creating one of the most solid programs in the nation. Now in his 10th full season with the Tigers, his record of 76-25-4 (.743) is the sixth best winning percentage in college football among active coaches. Additionally, Clemson also has the sixth best winning percentage in the nation over the last 10 years. Clemson is the only team in the nation to win a bowl game, a conference championship and finish in the top 20 of the AP poll each of the last two years.

After examining Ford's football past, it is difficult to imagine him as anything but successful. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969.

Ford is the ACC's winningest coach on a percentage basis.

He was Kenny Stabler's tight end in 1967 when he started as a sophomore. He played tight end again in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as captain of the Alabama squad. Ford also played freshman basketball at Alabama.

After Pat Dye's coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 season. After earning a B.S. degree in Industrial Arts, he received a master's degree in Special Education in 1971. In 1972 and 1973, Ford was a full-time assistant for the Bear. During these four years, the Crimson Tide went to four bowl games with Ford as an assistant.

Ford left Alabama for Virginia Tech where he was an assistant under Jimmy Sharpe for three seasons (1974-76). In 1977, Clemson came calling and Ford joined the coaching staff as an offensive line coach. Only 23 games later, at the age of 30, Ford was named the Tigers' head coach, making him the youngest active Division 1 coach in the country.

Danny Ford and Joe Paterno are both ranked among the top six winningest active coaches in Division I.

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problems at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to a bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

Clemson Coaches

The 1987-88 Tiger athletes continued the winning ways of previous Clemson teams. From a soccer national championship in the fall to NCAA appearances by four teams last spring (men's tennis, baseball, track and golf), Clemson was successful throughout the year.

The Tigers claimed five ACC championships during the past academic year. The football team went on to a 35-10 victory over Penn State in the Citrus Bowl. Clemson's women's swimmers finished the season with a perfect 9-0 record and repeated as the fifth ranked team in the nation. Also winning the conference was the men's tennis team, which competed in the NCAA tournament. In addition to these ACC tournament champs, Clemson's baseball squad ended the regular season on top of the conference standings.

ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors went to Bill Cason (men's cross country), Bob Boettner (women's swimming), and Bill Wilhelm (baseball). Five of last year's conference MVP's and four Academic All-Americans came from Clemson. Tiger teams produced 22 All-America athletes, as Clemson finished the year with 10 different sports ranked among the nation's top 20.

As millions of loyal fans file through stadium turnstiles from Atlanta to College Park this Fall, many millions more will be following the television cameras of Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions, the most intense sports rivalries in the East unfold — ACC Football.

We're proud to begin our fifth consecutive season of bringing you a full schedule of gridiron drama that has made Atlantic Coast Conference football a regional tradition.

We're part of the Jefferson-Pilot family of companies. And whether it's protecting families with life insurance or entertaining them on radio and television, our commitment to quality, in business and in life, remains the same.

So, as the passion and the pageantry of one of America's most exciting sports spectacles unfold across some of the country's most beautiful campuses, all of us at Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions wish each ACC member the very best of luck.

And we invite everyone to enjoy the action with us.

The first thing to check when buying a new house is the yard.

If there's an SCE&G Good Cents sign in the yard, then you know the house is going to be both energy efficient and comfortable to live in. In fact, a Good Cents home even qualifies for a lower electric rate. Before you buy, look for the Good Cents sign outside, you'll be a lot happier with what you find inside.

First-team All-American and All-ACC in 1977 and 1978 ... also won ACC Jacobs Blocking Trophy in 1977 ... played in the Hula Bowl in 1979 and was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals of the NFL ... still a starter with the organization, he has played and started more NFL games than any active former Clemson player, and second among active Phoenix Cardinals.

Jeff Bostic (1976-79)

All-ACC offensive guard in 1979 who has gone on to a great pro career with the Washington Redskins as a center ... started for three seasons on the offensive line for the Tigers ... owns a pair of Super Bowl Championship rings and has played in three Super Bowl games ... participated in the Japan Bowl in 1980 and moved on to the NFL as a free agent ... now in his ninth season in pro football, eight with Washington.

Athletic Academic Endowment

By Willie Shearer

A new development in the last three years within Clemson University has been the Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship.

Created with athletic funds to help Clemson University compete for the most deserving and gifted young scholars, the program provides scholarship assistance to students who do not participate in intercollegiate athletics. Clemson might find itself at a real disadvantage without adequate scholarship funds to attract the most highly qualified students.

With these thoughts in mind, the IPTAY Board of Directors established the program in July of 1985 using companies' matching funds. According to Allison Dalton, the Executive Secretary of IPTAY, "There were a number of companies who had indicated they would not match their employees' contributions to IPTAY if their funds were used for athletic purposes, but would match their employees' gifts to IPTAY if the company's funds were used for a purely academic purpose.

"It was decided that these funds should go into a special endowment to fund academic scholarships for non-athletes. Ninety percent of the interest from the fund would be available each year to award scholarships with the principal remaining untouched and 10 percent of the interest being added to the principal to increase the endowment."

Beyond that, Athletic Director Bobby Robinson made an unprecedented commitment to the academic success of Clemson University. "He proposed contributing 10 percent of the gross revenue for athletic appearances on television and 10 percent of the net proceeds from post-season participation of Clemson athletic teams to this same academic scholarship endowment," Dalton said. However, the proposal was made conditional upon the athletic department's receiving the normal allocation of student fees which has been a recognized part of the athletic budget for years.

According to the interdepartmental agreement between the financial aid office and the athletic department, the program allows supporters of Clemson University Athletics the opportunity to promote and enhance the development of academic scholarships for the university. The awards shall be made on the basis of scholarly achievement and academic potential, and the number and amount of awards shall be determined by the University Scholarships and Awards Committee. Finally, the University Scholarships and Awards Committee will select recipients from among eligible candidates.

This year there are over 50 students who are benefitting from the endowment. They come from nine different states and have not been bashful about expressing their appreciation to the administrative officials of Clemson's athletic department.

After reaching a level of $121,253.82 in the first year, the endowment grew tremendously during the ensuing years and now has grown to over $1,000,000.00. Undoubtedly, this was due in part to Clemson's phenomenal success in the various areas of athletic competition over the course of the last three years. In 1986-87 10 of Clemson's 18 varsity teams finished in the nation's top 20, and all three of the major revenue-producing sports, baseball, football and basketball, participated in post-season action.

There is no reason why the 1988-89 year cannot reap similar benefits for Clemson University.

"It is exciting to realize the potential of this academic scholarship endowment over the next few years," Dalton said. "It is very possible that the fund could exceed 1.5 million dollars in just a few years and certainly has the prospect of becoming the largest academic scholarship endowment at Clemson.

"Many companies have expressed appreciation for what IPTAY is doing by crediting their employees with these matching gifts. Several publications throughout the country have recognized this as a clear example of how athletics support the total mission of a university and how athletics and academics can and should be mutually supportive."

Many Clemson students have benefitted from Clemson's success on the gridiron and the Athletic Academic Endowment.

Centennial Update: A Look Backward . . . And Ahead

By Sandy Woodward

The end of the football season is a good time to reflect on the past and look forward to the future.

This week marks a very important date in the history of Clemson University, the 150th anniversary of the marriage of Thomas Green Clemson and Anna Calhoun on Nov. 13, 1838. The significance of their marriage—to the university and to the citizens of South Carolina—cannot be overestimated.

The decision by John C. Calhoun's beloved daughter to marry Thomas Green Clemson, a man devoted to the pursuit of scientific knowledge, set the stage for South Carolina to have a school devoted to the study of science and agriculture. Then, as history professor emeritus E. M. Lander says, the "right" things had to happen, many of them tragic for the individuals but fortuitous for future generations.

Anna and Thomas Clemson's children all died before their parents. Anna's mother willed the family home, Fort Hill, to her. When Anna died, she left the property to her husband, making clear her desire that a school be established. Alone and bitter, Clemson lost interest in the prospect of establishing the school but carried out his wife's wishes in his will. Professor Lander speculates that if Clemson's granddaughter, his only heir, had visited him as he urged her to, he probably would have left her everything.

The property and money that established Clemson University belonged to Anna Calhoun Clemson, and her marriage to a man to whom education and the pursuit of scientific knowledge were important was indeed a happy circumstance for South Carolina. Together they left a legacy that has had a significant impact on the state.

This spring Clemson's Centennial focuses on the various aspects of that impact. In January the S.C. General Assembly and the public will get a report on the economic impact of the university on the state. The spring semester's central Centennial speaker will be Nobel Prize-winning economist George Stigler, who will emphasize "the University and the Socio-Economic World" in his April 10 lecture.

The spring celebration will also feature a big, public "birthday party." Mark your calendars for April 1 and 2. That's Cornerstone Weekend, a campus-wide open house and celebration.

Cornerstone Weekend will feature tours, displays, food, entertainment, screenings of the Centennial film "Something in These Hills," hot air balloons flying over Memorial Stadium during the annual spring football game, and baseball against USC. The big event of the weekend—and the reason the celebration is called Cornerstone Weekend—will be replacement of the Tillman Hall cornerstone containing a new time capsule full of items to be saved for the Bicentennial in 2088.

That weekend is also the date of Pendleton's annual Spring Jubilee, this year designated a Centennial event. Pendleton's Farmer's Hall is where Thomas Clemson first discussed the concept of an agricultural college. The Jubilee features an arts and crafts fair, entertainment and tours of historic homes in the village of Pendleton.

So don't think of today's game as the end of the season. It's really just the beginning of another phase of the Centennial. Plan to come and bring your family and friends to help us celebrate.

Henry Carter

Old Warrior Has Been Asset On Offense And Defense

By Annabelle Vaughan

A year or two ago, Henry Carter hobbled into a team meeting with a huge patch over his eye, a bandage wrapped all around his hand, a bandage wrapped around his knee, and was trying to walk on crutches. Upon beholding this pitiful sight, the ever-eloquent Danny Ford exclaimed, "Son, you look like you just got back from Beirut."

Beirut may have been a little kinder to Carter had he been there, but he's not complaining. Despite several broken fingers, poked eyes, five knee surgeries, and various other injuries, Carter still loves the game of football enough to keep banging away at it. In fact, he loves it so much that this season, he came out of a peaceful, injury-free retirement just to play again.

Carter began his career at Clemson behind the quarterback, spending his freshman year at fullback. He and Kenny Flowers split time that season, but Carter was only one of two first-year freshmen to play and earn a letter in 1984. Two times, against Virginia and Duke, he was named ACC Rookie-of-the-Week. It looked as if Carter's career was off to an auspicious start.

But two games before the season ended, he went down with an injury. "I had done pretty well that year for a freshman," said Carter. "But in the Maryland game, I tore ligaments in my left knee and missed the rest of the season. I didn't get to play in the South Carolina game, which was something I had looked forward to since I got to Clemson."

But come springtime, things once again looked promising for Carter. He had a solid spring practice, with eight receptions from his fullback position for 55 yards in six spring scrimmages. "I came back in the fall ready to play," said Carter. "But two days into fall practice, I was running the ball and broke my finger. A couple of days later, I talked them into padding my hand and letting me practice. They put a big glove over my hand. It looked like a big club, but I practiced with it."

"A day or two later, I got poked in the eye and lost some vision in it, so they put a big patch over it. I let that rest for a day and then told them I could practice. I went out there with a patch over my eye, a club on my hand and started running the ball. Well, since I couldn't see out of one eye, I really got blindsided! I busted my ankle up pretty good. That was about enough, so I went and asked Coach Ford if I could just red-shirt that year."

The next season, Carter decided it might be in his best interest to try another position, so he and the coaching staff decided to give it a go at linebacker. During the spring of 1986, he impressed the coaches so much that he was listed at number-one middle linebacker going into the fall. "I think I did pretty well at linebacker," said Carter. "I was feeling good most of the season."

Well, the season was not perfect for Carter. He missed almost three entire games with yet another knee injury just five plays into the N.C. State game. He had surgery, yet finished the season as the fifth leading tackler on the team and ended the season on a high note with 13 tackles in the Gator Bowl, his career high.

In 1987, Carter was plagued with other minor injuries. He missed the ACC Championship win against Maryland and, once again, the USC game. He came back for the Citrus Bowl game and ... broke a finger! Nevertheless, he racked up 47 tackles for the season, third among inside linebackers.

Some people might think of Carter as Henry Carter has had five operations in the last five years but has been a steady performer on both offense and defense. He had a team high 13 tackles against Stanford in the 1986 Gator Bowl.

some sort of sadist, but his reasons for sticking with football are much simpler. "It's not just because I love football that I keep playing," he said. "It's just a part of commitment. I committed to play football for Clemson and I take all of my commitments seriously. I know that once I get out into the real world, I can't quit just because things don't go exactly the way I want them to."

But despite his commitment, Carter opted not to return to the gridiron in 1988, forgoing his final year of eligibility. "The injuries were really starting to bother my mind," he said. "I wasn't worried about getting hurt, I was used to that. But nobody likes pain. My mother was also sick at that time and I felt that I needed to be available for her, so I sat out spring practice."

This fall, Carter was back on the football field on the first day of practice, but this time as a student coach. He coached all the way through two-a-day practices before Ford came to ask the old soldier to come back to the battle zone.

"When they found out that Chris (Lancaster) wouldn't be able to play anymore, Coach Ford came and asked me to come back to the team as a fullback," Carter said. "I was not in any kind of football shape whatsoever, but they worked with me. I really hurt for Chris. I've been injured many times, but nobody ever told me I couldn't play football anymore. I guess I've been lucky."

Well, the 1988 season is almost over, and Henry Carter is walking around campus with a cast on his left hand. He has a broken bone in his left hand. He still played in the North Carolina game with the cast and hopes to play the rest of the season. He only has three carries from his fullback position, but he's thrown some mean blocks (five knockdowns in 20 plays vs. Furman). And he's definitely back in football shape, even though he is not a starter.

"It's frustrating to not play much," Carter said. "but I knew when I came back that I wouldn't play much. I just came back to help the team and I think I'm doing that. I think I have matured a lot, on and off the field. On the field, I realize now from being a coach for a little while, that the coaches work you hard just to make you better, and I appreciate them more. Off the field, I am concentrating on working on my degree and I plan to finish in August. I've been unlucky with injuries, but I've learned to keep fighting. I don't give up just because things are going wrong. I'm glad I decided to stick it out."

Richard Smith

Horace Grant's Success Helped Tiger Football Team

By Dave Mullaney

The legendary Vince Lombardi, or was it really Vanderbilt's Red Sanders, first uttered what has become one of the most overused maxim's in all of sport, "Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing."

And to most of the 80,000 diehards that will pack Clemson's Death Valley this afternoon, winning will just about be the only thing.

But to Clemson's Richard Smith, winning starts when he puts on his helmet and shoulder pads.

"I don't lose my place in life," Smith said. "I feel good when I suit up. I feel it's a privilege to be in that orange and white suit with the tiger paw on the side of the helmet. It's an opportunity that many people will never have."

It's also an opportunity that Smith almost never had.

When his mother, Juanita, was eight months pregnant with Richard, she was involved in a life-threatening car accident. She recovered, but the doctors didn't know if Richard would survive.

He was born with rheumatic fever, which caused him to have seizures as a child. His doctors thought he might never be able to play sports.

Smith eventually grew out of his childhood condition, but the knowledge of his past gives Richard an appreciation of what winning is really all about.

"Football is fun," Smith said, "but your life is the most important thing you've got. Like my father would say, 'we're living here on borrowed time.'"

And Smith has used his time well.

A 5-foot-11 senior free safety from Sparta, GA, Smith was an all-conference performer at Hancock Central High School, where he once scored four touchdowns, gained 210 yards and had 10 solo tackles in one outing. After seeing the success that his close friend Horace Grant enjoyed on the basketball court for the Tigers, Smith chose to attend Clemson.

"When I came here I really didn't think that I would play because I was coming from a small school. It was my first time playing in a good football environment. It was kind of nerve-wracking."

It must have been. The first time he was called upon by the Clemson coaches in a 1985 game at Kentucky, he ran into the game without his helmet.

"I had to come back and get it," Smith said. "I was just a freshman and a little nervous. But I went in there and hustled to get around to the ball."

Smith made a habit of getting around to the ball during his first two seasons at Clemson. He earned the reputation of being a demon on the special teams, making eight special teams tackles as a freshman and 10 as a sophomore.

He cracked the starting lineup last season, made 33 tackles and broke up eight passes. In last season's Citrus Bowl victory, he registered a then career-high seven tackles, including six first hits and one pass broken up.

"I always felt I could step in and play at free safety. It was just a matter of time. Everyone thought I was a new kid on the block last year, but I wasn't. I was used to playing in the big games."

"I feel I made a lot of progress last year. My sophomore year I was just learning the game. Last year I felt like I was playing the game. I kind of smoothed out my game."

This season has been a sort of roller-coaster affair for Smith. After fighting back from shoulder surgery which forced him to miss spring practice, he began the season with two strong performances, including a 14-tackle effort against Furman. But recently, Smith has been relegated to seeing much of his playing time as a mem-

Smith once rushed for 210 yards and made 10 tackles on defense in the same high school game.

ber of the special teams. According to his position coach Bill Oliver, Smith is still considered a first-team player. But as Oliver said, "He's the best special teams player we have."

But Smith, playing the part of the consummate team player, has kept everything in perspective.

"I would rather be in there playing 40 or 50 snaps than just playing special teams," Smith said. "But if the team needs me on special teams, that's where I'd rather be."

"I think I've come a long ways. I think I'm an overachiever. I've worked really hard to get where I'm at."

Clemson's strength coach Gary Wade agrees.

"Richard's the kind of guy who has had to work through adverse situations," Wade said. "He had a shoulder problem and various injuries. He's always come down here and worked through it. He's also exhibited a lot of great natural talent. He's got a 37 inch vertical jump, which is phenomenal. He's always done everything we've asked of him."

He always seems to do more than just what's asked of him.

Smith has beaten the odds. When he touches Howard's famed rock and runs down the hill for the final time today, he won't need to await a final score to assure himself that he's a winner.

He's living proof.

Smith forgot his helmet the first time he was called into a Clemson game.

Frank Deluliis

Pittsburgh Native Hopes This Is A Special Birthday

By Sheri West

"Just write about his being from Pittsburgh," suggested Frank Deluliis' roommate J.C. Harper.

Now there's an idea . . . but wait. A lot of people are from Pittsburgh. What's so unique about that?

With one glance at the Tigers' roster you'll notice that only Deluliis and wide receiver Gary Cooper hail from Pennsylvania. A closer look will reveal that only 12 of the 110 players list hometowns that are not below the Mason-Dixon line. Deluliis has found, however, that the differences in background seem to disappear when people work together to achieve a goal. In his opinion, the best thing about Clemson football is the friends he has on the team.

"There are a lot of good guys on the team. The talks we have and just getting to know them have been great. With football, there's a lot that draws you closer together."

Even so, the comradery is not established until after a player arrives at school. When Deluliis was in the process of selecting a college, Clemson faced some stiff competition from the likes of Notre Dame, Stanford, and Pittsburgh. In fact, he had decided to enroll at Pitt when something changed his mind and he gave the Clemson coaches a call.

"I was going to Pitt until the last day," he explains. "I finally realized I was going there for all the wrong reasons." Instead of trying to please his family and friends, Deluliis based his decision on what would make him happy.

"I always wanted to get away from home for college and the South had appealed to me. I wanted to find some warmer weather."

"I came down here in 1983 for the Maryland game when they had the Spirit Blitz with all the balloons. I liked the enthusiasm. That pretty much captured me right there."

Clemson fans should be glad because Deluliis has contributed greatly, playing in all but two games in his four-year career. A sometimes starter for three years, he has started every game this season at left offensive tackle. His position coach Bill D'Andrea tells what Deluliis means to the Tigers.

"Frank is the kind of player who takes tremendous pride in what he is doing; how he grades out and his unselfish role on this football team. He has an attitude about himself that somehow he is going to be better each week. He has played his best football this year. Frank has shown so much improvement, I almost feel his best football is yet to come."

Not bad for someone who had never played on the offensive line before coming to Clemson. In high school Deluliis played tight end and defensive tackle. It's not unusual for players at small schools to play both offense and defense, but Penn Hills is a relatively large school and Deluliis was the only one on the team who played both ways. Because he was also the team's placekicker and punter, he didn't even get a break when the special teams took the field.

In 1986 when Coach Ford placed an ad in the paper for a punter, Deluliis thought his high school average of 43 yards per punt might be good enough to get him the job.

"I suggested it to him one day and he just told me I'd better worry about playing the offensive line, and not worry about anything else." Ford does not like to have position players punt because an injury means you are without two starters, not just one.

So Deluliis concentrated on being a tackle and Coach D'Andrea praises his understanding of the position.

"Frank is probably one of the most intelligent offensive linemen we have as far as having a knowledge for the schemes and blocking assignments. He makes very few mental mistakes.

"Last year he played a vital role in playing both sides. I rolled all three tackles—Jeff Nunamacher, Ty Granger, and Deluliis—and Frank played both sides. That was very valuable to us."

This season, however, D'Andrea added Stacy Long to the rotation, so the tackles alternate series. This enables them to stay fresh and be more effective. Last year Deluliis recorded 26 knockdown blocks in 11 games. He has topped that mark in 1988 after beginning the season with a game high seven KD blocks against Virginia Tech. He recently had a career high 84 percent grade against North Carolina and Maryland.

Deluliis has impressive stats in the weightroom also. He ranks third on the team in the Power Clean with a 346-pound figure. His 31" verticle jump is unusual for a lineman and shows his natural athletic ability.

Like any football player in the fall trying to balance schoolwork with the rigors of an in-season sport, Deluliis will ask you to define "free-time." Then he'll smile and admit that between practice and studies (he will graduate in May with a degree in Management), he does manage to squeeze in an occasional game of golf and enjoys just about anything athletic. Growing up he played basketball, volleyball, and baseball in addition to the sport he's best known for around Clemson. He played high school basketball and even played against present teammate Gary Cooper.

Someone who spends so much time in athletic pursuits must have been raised in a sports-minded family, right? Well, not necessarily. Deluliis' father came to the U.S. from Italy at age 18 and, therefore, wasn't that familiar with American sports. It was not until Deluliis' older brother Dino started playing football that Frank thought much about the sport. Dino went on to be a three-year letterwinner at Middle Tennessee State, and there's one more Deluliis left at Penn Hills High. You can bet that with three sons, Mr. & Mrs. D. have seen their share of football and, by now, have a pretty good understanding of the game.

Even though it's a long way from Pennsylvania, they made the trip this weekend; not only to cheer on the Tigers but also to help Deluliis celebrate his birthday. He turns 22 today and can't think of a better present than a senior year victory over the Gamecocks.

Five years of hard work on the practice field have made Deluliis one of Clemson's top blockers.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through.

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, Mc-

Millian said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time—like five to seven years—that we can sell out what we have now," he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if its harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Clemson has increased its capacity by about 25,000 over the last 10 years, not to mention countless other aesthetic improvements.

Senior Spotlight

Foster

Gibson

By Annabelle Vaughan

Jon Foster is one of the Tigers' many quality reserve punters. Although he has never seen action in a game at Clemson, he has challenged Clemson's other kickers in practice and helped the Tigers' entire kicking unit become better.

"Jon benefits our team in terms of his leadership ability," said Head Coach Danny Ford. "He is one of our most outstanding athletes when it comes to leadership. Jon is a very fine person and he will be missed."

Foster hails from nearby Anderson, SC, where he graduated from Westside High School.

Cameron Gibson has played a special role for the Tigers over the past four years. As a reserve tailback, Gibson's work on the scout team helps give the Tiger defense a look at what they will see from their opposition from one week to another. A senior agronomy major from Orange, VA, Gibson has played in three games in his career. In 1987 against Maryland, he carried the ball once for five yards. This season, he saw action in the Virginia Tech contest and once again had one carry for five yards, then carried against UNC two weeks ago. Gibson also had two carries in the 1988 Spring Game, before going down with an ankle injury.

"Cam is a very important part of our football program," said running back coach Chuck Reedy. "He has given 100% for four years and has been a positive influence on many of our younger players. He has worked hard with the scout team and has often been the only running back on the scout team so he has had to work extra hard."

In high school, Gibson was a three-year letterman at Orange County High School. In 1985, he was named his team's Most Valuable Senior Athlete.

Tyler Grimes has been an active member of the Clemson special teams for the last three years, as well as being a reserve defensive back. Grimes has seen action in 24 games during his career as a Tiger and has 31 tackles, 23 of which have been first hits. This season, Grimes has played in five games and has four special teams tackles. Against Stanford in the 1986 Gator Bowl, he recovered a fumble and he caused a fumble in 1987. He was third on the team in special teams tackles in 1987 with 16.

In high school, Grimes was voted the Anderson Touchdown Club's most valuable offensive player as a senior. He was also Westminster High School's Most Valuable Athlete in track. As a running back, he was all-conference and was his team's top ground gainer his senior season.

Trey Howell walked on the Clemson football program as a placekicker, but decided he wanted to try playing wide receiver. He has appeared in one contest during his career, last season versus Western Carolina. Although he has not been a factor in a game situation, he has played an important part in the improvement of the Tigers' receiving corps.

"Trey is probably the most well-liked among our receivers," said wide receiver coach Woody McCorvey. "He comes to practice every day with a smile on his face. When he does something well, all of the other receivers get excited. He is one of the hardest workers we have and has worked hard on the scout team."

Howell came to Clemson from Sumter, SC, where he earned seven letters. Surprisingly enough, five of those letters were in golf, while only one was in football. Howell was honored with his team's Football Sportsmanship Award.

Chinedu Ohan will long be remembered for one fourth-quarter play he made last year against the Georgia Bulldogs. Ohan made a diving save to keep the ball from going into the endzone so it could be downed at the one-yard line late in the game to set up a safety. Clemson went on to a one-point win on national TV. He came to Clemson from Merced Junior College and joined the squad as a running back. He saw action in every game in 1987, playing only special teams in six games. He had four carries for 10 yards for the season and had six tackles on special teams. This season, he moved to tight end and has played in eight games, having one reception for nine yards. He has continued his fine special teams play.

Ohan

Ohan is one of the most intriguing athletes at Clemson. He was born in England and is of Nigerian and German descent. He went to high school for two years in London, where he competed in boxing, soccer, track and swimming, but never in football. He finished high school at Hawthorne High in Nevada and went on to play football for Montana State for a year before transferring to Merced. Montana State won the Division IAA National Championship while Ohan was there.

Richard Tucker is another senior who has been an important part of the Tigers' scout team. Whenever Clemson faces an opponent with a top-notch receiver, Tucker becomes that receiver for a week, helping the defense learn how to defend him.

"Richard has excellent speed, probably more than almost any other receiver on the squad," said Woody McCorvey. "He has played the role of the primary receiver on the scout team and has given our defensive secondary a good idea of what they are up against. Richard works hard and is a very dedicated and conscientious athlete and student. He adds a great deal to our program."

Tucker graduated from Spring Valley High School in Columbia, SC in 1984, where he played football for Coach Roger Hazel.

Environmental Landscaping is proud to be a part of the winning team at Clemson.

Environmental Landscaping has installed Toro Automatic Irrigation Systems and provided our professional turf services for all areas of Clemson University Athletics.

"Excellence in Athletic Turf"

Toro....your source for automatic irrigation and sprinkler systems.

For the second consecutive year the Clemson athletic program can boast of 10 teams that finished the year ranked among the nation's Top 20.

This success comes at a time when spiralling costs make running a comprehensive athletic program increasingly difficult.

Clemson has met the challenge. But not without the help of IPTAY, one of the nation's premier athletic scholarship fundraising organizations.

IPTAY, which stands for "I Pay Thirty A Year," finances the education of nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers and managers each year. Due to the support provided by the organization, now in its 54th year, Clemson is one of the few schools in the nation that is able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for its 18 men's and women's varsity sports.

IPTAY recently received national acclaim as it was featured in SPORTS INC., a weekly publication devoted to the business of sports. And, at the first convention of the Athletic Fundraisers of America, held in June in Atlanta, IPTAY was one of the featured topics of discussion.

The organization is supported by over 20,000 dues-paying members who have enabled IPTAY to enjoy its 24th consecutive increase in annual donations. The tremendous growth of IPTAY has also made it the first athletic organization in the country to top the two, three, four and five million dollar marks in annual donations. The organization expects to approach $6 million in donations this fiscal year.

IPTAY's contributions have helped make Clemson's facilities second to none.

The success of IPTAY has enabled the organization to modify its purpose beyond the financing of scholarships to include the fiscal foundation for athletic facilities.

In recent years IPTAY has provided the funding for the addition of the upper deck on the north side of Memorial Stadium, an indoor tennis facility and the addition of a soccer facility, which proved to be an especially timely move. The new soccer field enabled Clemson to play host to the 1987 NCAA men's soccer Final Four, where the Tigers proceeded to capture the national title.

IPTAY will now turn its attention to the enlargement of Tiger Field, home of the ACC regular-season champion Clemson baseball team. An addition will provide permanent seating for 3,000, will house indoor batting cages, locker rooms and extended press facilities.

The Tiger Band has also benefited from IPTAY's success. New uniforms were provided for the band in 1986. IPTAY also handled the band's travel expenses, providing a commitment of over $200,000.

Since the Tiger athletic program receives no university or state funding, the story of IPTAY is especially impressive. So impressive, in fact, that for six consecutive years allocations from student fees have been returned to the university by the athletic department.

While IPTAY has primarily been concerned with athletic fundraising, the organization's commitment to Clemson University extends beyond the playing field. The IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund, created during the fall of 1984 to award students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction, is currently the second-largest academic scholarship endowment at Clemson. The fund is presently nearing the $1 million mark. IPTAY also provides one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, where student-athletes are given the opportunity to call on the services of a highly-trained academic advising staff.

The tremendous success of IPTAY can be attributed, in large part, to its organization which, affords the group a great deal of "grassroot" support. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY chairman, while every county is allotted one representative for every 36 members.

Every member is kept abreast of Clemson athletics through the ORANGE AND WHITE. As the official publication of IPTAY, the ORANGE AND WHITE is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members.

With the continued assistance provided by IPTAY, Clemson University will continue to enjoy national prominence athletically and academically.

Centennial Celebration

This past April 6 was a great day for Clemson. It marked the beginning of the university's second century of teaching, research and public service. As the official beginning of Clemson's Centennial celebration, county Extension offices along with local alumni and Clemson Clubs across the state hosted local ceremonies to unfurl the new Clemson flag and fly it for the first time. Meanwhile, a main-campus ceremony featured university leaders, Congressman Butler Derrick and Senators Strom Thurmond and Ernest Hollings. Noting that the day also marked the 100th anniversary of the death of Thomas Green Clemson, President Max Lennon said, "We do not honor his death; rather we celebrate the tremendous gift to the citizens of South Carolina made possible by his will." Thus began the 20-month celebration that will honor the founder and the founding of our university.

Clemson's establishment didn't happen overnight. It took almost two years for the state to accept the gift of land and money provided by Mr. Clemson's will for "a college for all the people." It seems only fair that we spend the same amount of time celebrating—and reflecting upon—the many contributions Clemson has made to South Carolina.

Just as Clemson is made up of a diverse group of alumni, students, staff and faculty, so the Centennial celebration reflects our different interests. The focus of the first phase last spring was "The University and the Arts," with a burst of cultural events capped by a lecture by opera star Beverly Sills.

This fall the focus will be "The University and the Sciences," with environmentalist John McKetta delivering the central lecture. "The University and the Economy" next spring will feature a visit by Nobel Prize-winning economist George Stigler, and the final focus, "The University and the Wider World," will bring William F. Buckley to the campus to speak.

It may seem that all we're doing to celebrate is listening to speeches. Wrong! Each college has planned individual activities, and the town of Clemson even got involved and held a "Happy Birthday, Clemson" picnic on Bowman Field in June. More festivities are planned throughout the Centennial period.

In fact, consider this your invitation to our big public birthday party the weekend of April 1, 1989. "Cornerstone Weekend" will feature a campus-wide exhibition and open house, a parade, fireworks, tours, the continuous showing of a new Clemson film, performances, the annual Spring Game, and the replacing of the Tillman Hall cornerstone, filled with new mementos for the second century.

The Centennial is more than just a party. It's even more than just an intellectual exercise. It's an opportunity for all the Clemson family to celebrate together our origin, our progress so far, and the promise the future holds. If only Mr. Clemson could see what he started!

Assistant Coaches

Cohesive Staff in its Third Year as a Unit

TOM HARPER is entering his eighth season as assistant head coach for the Tigers. The former Wake Forest head coach also guides the Tiger defensive line. Harper came to Clemson from Virginia Tech, where he served as defensive coordinator and defensive line coach. A native of Piqua, Ohio, Harper also served as the defensive coordinator at Iowa State (1974-75) and North Carolina (1976-77). He earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1955 and, in 1958, he received a master's degree in education administration from the same institution. Harper lettered in three sports for the Wildcats and earned three letters as a tackle. His recruiting responsibilities include New York and South Carolina. Since coming to Clemson, he has overseen a defense that has had 19 players drafted by the NFL. Harper has had a hand in coaching six ACC championship teams, four at Clemson.

MILES ALDRIDGE joined the Clemson staff on June 28, 1985 after a two-year stint at Duke. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge coaches the inside linebackers. A 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb College, Aldridge began coaching on the collegiate level at East Tennessee State (1973-77) prior to stints at Wichita State (1978) and Tulsa (1979). He recruits the lower part of South Carolina, Philadelphia and New Jersey.

WAYNE BOLT is in his third year with Clemson as he joined the Tiger staff on March 10, 1986. His responsibilities include coaching the tight ends and kickoff return teams. He is also the football dorm director and does not recruit off campus. Bolt's first season as a Tiger coach saw him coach an All-ACC tight end (Jim Riggs), while his kickoff return team led the nation in average return, just the second team statistical championship in Clemson history. Bolt earned all-conference and All-America honors during his playing career as an offensive guard for East Carolina (1974-77). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant for the Pirates. He then spent a year at Wyoming before moving on to Auburn in

JACK CROWE joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the Tiger quarterback coach. He came to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator under Pat Dye and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also been offensive coordinator at Wyoming and North Alabama, and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree in chemistry from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native is responsible for recruiting Georgia, Virginia, Washington, DC, and Alabama.

BILL D'ANDREA rejoined the Clemson staff on June 23, 1986 after spending two seasons at Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina, a full-time assistant at the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy and Catawba College. He also spent two years (1983-84) at Clemson as a graduate assistant. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He lacks only a few semester hours from receiving a second master's degree. He coaches the offensive tackles and recruits North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

WOODY MCCORVEY is in his sixth year on the Tiger coaching staff, where he coaches the wide receivers. For three years he coached the Tigers' tight ends, and for two of those seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. This is his third season coaching the wide receivers. His recruiting responsibilities include eastern North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was offensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

BILL OLIVER is in his third season as the defensive secondary coach. He also recruits for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late

Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint prior to coming to Clemson, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League, where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team, and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962. In the two years he has been at Clemson, the Tigers have led the ACC in completion percentage defense and fewest yards per attempt allowed.

CHUCK REEDY is in his 11th season as the Tigers' running back coach. His recruiting territory includes South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, New England and New York. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State, where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. No less than 12 former Clemson running backs who have been coached by Reedy have been drafted or signed free agent contracts. Six players he has coached have either played in the NFL or were selected in the first two rounds of the NFL draft. Seven of the top 10 single season individual rushing performances have taken place under Reedy, and seven of his former players were in the NFL last year.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN joined the Clemson staff on January 5, 1979. A native of Brazil, Iowa, Van Der Heyden coaches the offensive line and recruits upper South Carolina, North Carolina and western Pennsylvania. He came to Clemson after coaching stints at Memphis State, Virginia, East Carolina, Indiana State, Drake and Iowa State. He was a three-time letterwinner in football and baseball at both Moline (IL) High and at Iowa State. He earned two degrees from Iowa State, a bachelor's in physical education in 1962, and a master's in education in 1968. A member of the Big-Eight all-conference football team in 1961, he was selected to the all-time Iowa State team by former players and coaches.

TOMMY WEST is in his seventh season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. His recruiting territory includes Florida and Georgia, and he also follows junior college athletes across the country. Prior to his arrival at Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July of 1982. A native of Gainesville, GA, West earned his bachelor's degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was a second-round draft pick out of high school by the Chicago Cubs.

This Day In Tiger Football

1977 Clemson-Carolina Game Among Most Memorable Of The Series

By Foster Senn

It is known by Clemson fans simply as "The Catch." The picture of it leaves some unforgettable images. Jerry Butler is frozen in midair; his helmet is bent back so far as to give the illusion that the night has taken away his head; the ball is clutched firmly in his hands, and a touchdown and a victory are within falling distance away.

A Clemson-South Carolina game considered to be the most exciting in the series' history led up to the remarkable, game-winning play by Butler on this day in 1977. The Nov. 19 contest is the acme of all Clemson-Carolina games—all comebacks, spectacular individual play, and games must be compared to this one.

Clemson entered the game at Williams-Brice Stadium with a 7-2-1 record, a Gator Bowl bid, and a No. 15 national ranking, its highest in 17 years. The Gamecocks brought a 5-5 record with hopes of a winning season. A regional television audience tuned in and 56,410 crammed into Williams-Brice to watch the 75th meeting between the rivals.

The Tigers assumed command quickly behind the play of Steve Fuller, who completed 14 of 20 passes for the day. Warren Ratchford ran four yards for a touchdown and Obed Ariri added a field goal to give Clemson a 10-0 first-quarter advantage. Lester Brown gave Clemson a 17-0 half-time lead with a one-yard touchdown run. When Ken Callicutt streaked 52 yards for a third quarter Tiger touchdown to give Clemson a 24-0 lead, most players and fans felt the game was basically over.

Well, everybody except the Gamecock football players.

Carolina staged a rally that rates as the best in the series' history. Spencer Clark started the charge with a 77-yard touchdown run with only 3:58 left in the third quarter. The Gamecocks then marched down the field again with Steve Dorsey running 11 yards for a touchdown to narrow the gap to 24-14. A strong defensive stand by the Gamecocks and a short Tiger punt gave the Gamecocks possession at Clemson's 38-yard line. The Gamecocks marched in again with Dorsey scoring to close the gap to 24-20 with only a few minutes left. USC failed on a two-point conversion attempt.

Carolina again held Clemson's offense and another short Tiger punt put the Gamecocks at the USC 48. Clemson's defense stiffened, however, and forced Carolina into a 4th down and 10 situation at the Clemson 40 with only two minutes remaining. With the game on the line, USC senior quarterback Ron Bass found receiver Phil Logan at the Tiger 25, where Logan made a leaping catch between several Clemson defenders. He then evaded some would-be tacklers with an outstanding run and made his way into the end zone to give USC a 27-24 lead.

The comeback and the touchdown sent Gamecock fans into a delirium. Some Gamecock players unveiled for television their "No Cigars Today" t-shirts, which USC defensive coordinator Richard Bell had printed up for the game. Clemson players had smoked cigars after every win that season.

With Williams-Brice roaring (it didn't sway yet) and with all the momentum on Carolina's side, it didn't look good for Clemson. But with 1:48 remaining there was still plenty of time for a touchdown and legends to be made.

After a couple of Tiger plays netted little, Fuller connected with senior receiver Rick Weddington for 26 yards and a Tiger first down at the Gamecock 38. Fuller then threw 18 yards to Dwight Clark, who ironically would make "The Catch" for the San Francisco 49ers several years later.

With the clock ticking under a minute and the Tigers at the USC 20, Fuller brought the Tigers to the line with no huddle. On a play designed to stop the clock, Fuller found Butler at the goal line, where Butler made his famous, leaping catch with 49 seconds to play to give Clemson the victory.

After the game, Fuller said it was the two's chemistry and Butler's ability which made the play work. "The two of us have developed a sort of sense of what the other is going to do," he said, "and Jerry was on his own to make up a route on that last scoring play."

Butler, who recently retired from pro football, insisted it was no big deal. "I think I should catch anything I can touch—that's what I'm here for," he said. "I kept my eyes on the ball and tried to hang on." And hang on Butler did on that Nov. 19—for one of the most memorable plays in Clemson football history.

Jerry Butler's catch, seen here from two angles, is one of the most important plays in the contemporary era of Clemson football.

Tiger Olympians

Clemson Was Well Represented In The 1988 Olympics

By Sheri West

MITZI KREMER

The women's swim team has a unique pair of Olympic medal winners on its roster this year: a rookie who's known for four years what it's like to win an Olympic medal and a veteran who's just getting used to the feeling.

The rookie is Michelle Richardson, a freshman from Miami, FL, who won a Silver Medal in the 800 freestyle at the 1984 Olympics. The Tiger veteran is Mitzi Kremer, a junior this year and proud owner of a brand new Olympic Bronze.

At the U.S. trials in August, Kremer qualified to compete in three events in Seoul. Her Olympic performance includes a sixth-place finish in the 200 meter and 13th-place ranking in the 100 free. In the 4 x 100 freestyle relay the team of Kremer, Dara Torres, Mary Wayte (who both swam for Florida), and Laura Walker (California) was good enough to capture the Bronze Medal.

Kremer is no stranger to award ceremonies. She was the 1987 NCAA champion in the 200 and 500 free and currently holds ACC records in those events. Even so, there is something special about winning an Olympic medal.

"It's just so different," explains Kremer. "You're standing up there and you watch the flag go up. You look down at the medal and your USA sweats . . . it's just really emotional."

The team spent three weeks in Seoul. The first was spent adjusting to the new surroundings. Workouts took place twice a day and in between the swimmers had a chance to go to a nearby shopping district or simply relax.

"We spent a lot of time in the cafeteria—not eating, just meeting people. There were six different eating places all connected so we'd go from one place to the next. We could spend three hours at lunch meeting new people."

When competition began the second week, the schedule became more structured. Preliminary heats and finals for each event were held on the same day. Each day began with a wake-up swim, warm-ups, and competition. Then it was back to the room to rest until the final heats that evening. And when Kremer wasn't competing, she was cheering for her teammates.

When the swimming competition ended, the vacation began. Kremer and her parents took in the sites at a Korean folk village and spent many days as spectators, watching volleyball, diving, and tennis.

She is back competing for the Tigers now and expecting no letdown after swimming against the best in the world.

"One thing the U.S. has is talented swimmers," says Kremer. "In my events most of the competition didn't retire, so I know I'll have to swim against these girls in college."

And she'll be ready, as will the other 16 swimmers returning from last year's ACC champion team, to defend the Tigers' top-five national ranking.

BRUCE MURRAY

Undoubtedly, part of every young athlete's fantasy is to represent his country in the Olympics. Americans have made strong showings in many sports over the years giving U.S. children a variety of "Olympic moments" in which to picture themselves. The recent addition of soccer to the Olympic Games (it became a medal sport for the first time this year) and the success of Bruce Murray and other American players in international competition will help turn young soccer players' dreams of Olympic gold into reality.

For Murray and the U.S. team, however, the primary objective was not an Olympic medal; most felt that would be a little too much to hope for. Their goal was to prove that the U.S. could produce a quality soccer team—not just one that was "good considering how young the sport is in America," but a team that could stand the test of international competition. In its first Olympic contest the U.S. team did just that.

The opponent was Argentina, highly regarded among the South American teams. In what is considered Murray's best game of the Olympics, the Americans took a 1-0 lead in the 79th minute (eleven minutes left to play in the game). However, the Argentines tied the game on a penalty kick near the end of the contest and the score remained 1-1 when the final horn sounded. Instead of being glad to have escaped with a tie, as they would have in the past, the Americans felt disappointed to not have won.

The U.S. team followed that game with a 0-0 tie with South Korea and a 4-2 loss to the Soviet Union (who would go on to capture the gold medal defeating Brazil 2-1 in the championship game). Although America's hopes for a medal were ended, the U.S. team had accomplished what it set out to do. It had earned the respect of those in international soccer.

And just as this year's U.S. team forced people to take notice of American soccer, so did Murray help bring Clemson soccer into the limelight. Although Coach I.M. Ibrahim has produced many strong teams in his 22 years at Clemson, it was not until Murray's freshman year that the Tigers brought home their first national championship. They didn't have to wait quite as long for a second one as Clemson repeated the feat in 1987, Murray's senior year. A four-year starter for the Tigers, no one would question Murray's value to the team during the past four years.

"There is no doubt that Bruce Murray was highly instrumental in our success and winning the national championship," said Ibrahim. "He is a great athlete and a very skillful soccer player."

Very skillful indeed—Murray was the 1987 recipient of the Hermann Award (equivalent to the Heisman Trophy). He was a two-time All-American whose 41 career assists rank fifth in conference history. As a Tiger he scored 48 goals, 13 of which were game winners, tying him for 11th among ACC scoring leaders with 121 total points. Clemson was 70-18-5 during Murray's four-year career.

"I wish he could play for me for four more years," says Ibrahim. Although that is not possible, Murray will continue to play soccer with a professional team in Italy, a rare occurrence for an American soccer player. "He's a credit to Clemson and United States soccer."

MIKE MILCHIN

Baseball was a demonstration sport for the final time at the 1988 Games, and Mike Milchin and the rest of the U.S. team were there sharing the spotlight. Some of the NCAA's best, including Jim Abbott of Michigan, Robin Ventura of Oklahoma State, and Ty Griffin of Georgia Tech, were assembled to represent America. They did that quite well and have the gold medals to prove it.

Entering the tournament, the U.S. squad felt that its main competition would come from the Japanese. (The Cuban team is also very strong but was not present at the Olympics due to Cuba's boycott of the Games.) The field was divided into two divisions of four teams. After a round-robin within the divisions, the two top teams from each advanced to a single elimination tournament.

The championship match-up was just as expected; the U.S. team played Japan for the gold medal. Tino Martinez (a first baseman from Univ. of Tampa) hit two home runs and Abbott pitched a complete game as the Americans defeated Japan, 5-3.

"Of course it was exciting," said Milchin. "We just wanted to beat Japan, so we were happy to do it in the championship game. A lot of people from the village congratulated us and NBC showed us highlights from our games when we got back to the village after the game."

That one win was the culmination of a long summer of hard work by the Americans. A 48-game schedule included two weeks in Japan, a five-week tour of the United States, and a three-week stay in Italy where the team competed in the World Championships.

It was during this time that Milchin learned that his role on the U.S. team would be slightly different than at Clemson. For the past two seasons he has been the Tigers' starting first baseman, earning Second Team All-ACC honors in 1988. Next spring he will begin his junior season with a .334 career batting average and 110 RBIs. But his talent is not limited to hitting.

In 1988 Milchin led the Tigers in both game-winning RBIs (10) and saves (8). It was his ability as a stopper that caught the eye of Olympic Coach Mark Marquess (coach of the 1988 National Champion Stanford Cardinals). During the summer tour and Olympic Games Milchin appeared in 12 games as a pitcher and even started a game—something he has never done in a Tiger uniform. He held up well against the international competition allowing only seven earned runs in 32 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings for a very respectable ERA of 1.93, and he posted an overall record of 3-1.

Milchin feels that this summer's competition will definitely help him in the future, both as a Tiger and in the professional career that will most likely follow his time at Clemson.

"It was good experience for me. Getting to travel every day is just like it will be in the pros, but there wasn't as much pressure. I also learned a lot from the other players that will help in the next few years."

Milchin won a Gold as a pitcher with the Olympic baseball team.

Today's Band Program

Seniors Perform For The Last Time In The Valley

By Dave Mullaney

Clemson's Tiger Band welcomes one of the premier trumpet players in the country as its guest for this afternoon's halftime performance. He has played with such well known artists as Sarah Vaughan, Tony Bennett, Dizzy Gillespie, Sonny and Cher, and Chuck Mangione. And today Vincent DiMartino will be the Tiger Band's featured soloist.

DiMartino, who was recently elected president of the International Trumpet Guild, is a professor at the University of Kentucky and is the first trumpet at the Arranger's Holiday Orchestra of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, NY. He is a frequent soloist at Disney World and performed just three weeks ago with the UCLA Band in Pasadena, CA.

The Tiger Band will open its pregame show by playing "Sock it to 'em," followed by "The Song That Shakes The Southland," TIGER RAG! The band will then form script "Tiger" as Tiger Band's commander, Davie Shull, dots the "I" on behalf of all Tiger Band's graduating seniors.

Shull, a senior majoring in electrical engineering from Wagener, SC, has earned President's List Honors with his 3.86 GPA.

The pregame show continues as Tiger Band plays "You're A Grande Ole Flag," and "America The Beautiful," directed by Dr. Richard E. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus.

The invocation will then be offered by Rev. Enoch Hendry of the United Methodist Church.

Directed by Dr. Bruce Cook, Tiger Band will next play "The Star-Spangled Banner," with Company C-4 of the Pershing Rifles presenting the colors. The chorus and band will then lead the Tiger Faithful in the Alma Mater, directed by Dr. Mark Jessie.

The University of South Carolina Marching Band will open the halftime festivities with its tribute to Duke Ellington, recognized as America's most outstanding jazz composer. The USC band will open with a Duke Ellington medley featuring the songs, "Caravan," "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," and "Take The A Train." Next will be the popular "Satin Doll," followed by another medley of Duke Ellington hits, featuring "Sophisticated Lady" and "It Don't Mean A Thing If It Aint Got That Swing." The USC Band will complete its halftime performance by playing the South Carolina Fight Song.

Tiger Band will open its halftime show with the Irving Berlin favorite, "There's No Business Like Show Business" (arranged by Ken Dye). Tiger Band's next two songs will feature DiMartino as the Trumpet soloist. He will first be featured in the Latin-styled composition "Fire Dance." DiMartino will then join the band in playing, "Looking Through The Eyes Of Love," popularly known as the theme from the movie "Ice Castles." Tiger Band will close its halftime performance by playing TIGER RAG!

The Last Word

By Bob Bradley

The 1978 South Carolina game at Clemson started out almost like the 1977 contest in Columbia.

The Tigers jumped into a three touch-down lead in the first quarter in '78 and a year earlier, Clemson would hold to a 17-0 halftime lead, then see it grow to 24-0.

After Clemson scored its third touch-down to go up 21-0 with better than two and a half minutes left in the first quarter, someone walked by in the press box and was heard to say: "Ho-hum, just another game." He was quickly reminded of the events of the '77 game.

With the Tigers holding a 24-0 lead and an ABC-TV regional audience looking on, the Gamecocks suddenly caught fire and scored 27 unanswered points to take a 27-24 lead. Ron Bass' 40-yard pass to Phillip Logan had given the Gamecocks their first advantage and there was only 1:48 left to play.

But Clemson quarterback Steve Fuller told the team on its first huddle after kickoff, "Get ready, we're going down the field." And that they did. Fuller engineered a 67-yard drive in 59 seconds, which ended with Jerry Butler's famous catch—a leaping reception covering the last 20 yards for a 31-27 win with 49 seconds left to play.

Now, getting back to the 1978 game. South Carolina started to move on the kickoff after Clemson's lead had mushroomed to 21-0 in just 11 and a half minutes. With George Rogers running and Garry Harper at quarterback, the Gamecocks moved 80 yards in eight plays to score. On its next possession, South Carolina took 13 plays to go another 80 yards to score. Suddenly, only seven points separated the two teams and better than six minutes were left in the half.

A clipping penalty backed the Tigers to the seven after the kickoff. But Fuller and Tracy Perry took things into their own hands for a 93-yard march. Perry gained 30 yards on the ground, Fuller rushed for 45 and passed 14 more to Butler. The scoring honors went to Perry, going off right tackle the final seven yards.

Harper went to the air from his own 37, only to have the Tigers' Rex Varn intercept and return 39 yards to the USC 32 with three seconds showing. Obed Ariri rushed in and kicked a 49-yard field goal to build the Tigers lead to 31-14 as time ran out.

Clemson rushed for 242 yards in the first half and South Carolina totalled 128. And it seemed that passing was not in either team's plan. Fuller only tossed two passes in the first half and would only throw five in the game, while Harper attempted five in the first half and six in the final 30 minutes.

It seems that both teams put up a metal fence along the goal line in the second half. There was plenty of offense, but each team could only cross each other's "alumni line" once in the final 30 minutes. They did trade field goals in the third period before Lester Brown scored with 11:31 left in the game for the Tigers and Johnnie Wright pushed over for South Carolina at the 6:36 mark. Each score was a two-yard run, and Clemson won 42-23.

The two teams that day had a combined rushing yardage of 707 yards (Clemson 397, South Carolina 310), and this represents the most yards rushing by two teams in Clemson history. That was back when each team had some blue chip running backs.

In 1974, the two teams together gained 697 yards on the ground (second highest in Tiger history) and the 1975 game had 690 combined rushing yards, which ranks as the third highest total.

In that 1978 game, there were four players to have over 100 yards rushing. George Rogers, who would later win the Heisman Trophy, gained 123 yards for the Gamecocks. At the same time, three Clemson backs went over the century mark. Lester Brown (121 yards), Steve Fuller (104) and Marvin Sims (104) had all but 64 yards of the Tigers' rushing.

Marvin Sims and Steve Fuller both had over 100 yards rushing vs. South Carolina in 1978.

Having three backs gain over 100 yards in a game has only happened four times in Clemson history. The 1950 backfield composed of Fred Cone, Jackie Calvert and Ray Mathews did it twice in one season a week apart. The last time this rare feat happened for the Tigers was in 1982 by Cliff Austin, Jeff McCall and Chuck McSwain against Virginia.

Little did people know it that afternoon in '78, but there was some raw talent performing. Four South Carolina players went on to the pros, and in the 1978 Clemson team picture, there are six future first round draft choices (Jerry Butler, Steve Fuller, Jim Stuckey, Jeff Bryant, Perry Tuttle and Terry Kinard).

Bryant, Tuttle and Kinard are still active, along with other '78 team members—Joe Bostic and Jeff Bostic. Butler, Fuller, Dwight Clark and Jeff Davis are now in their first year of pro retirement while Lester Brown, like Tuttle, went the Canadian route.

From the number of professional scouts who have visited both Clemson and South Carolina this year, apparently there is more gold to be mined off the two squads. The Gamecocks show 11 seniors while the Tigers are top-heavy with 28 seniors.

But little does class standing have a bearing today. It's the color you're wearing.

Orange incites garnet and garnet incites orange.

There might not be 64 points scored today as there were in 1978, but the possibility is there. It's not likely that there'll be 707 yards rushing by both teams, but there exists the possibility. There'll be a fumble here and there, possibly an interception or two, maybe a couple of runs or passes over 50 yards, but nothing is guaranteed. Only one thing is for certain—it's the last regular season game for both teams.

They will go to war with each other, but will sign a year's truce when the 60-minute battle is over. We hope that those fans wearing orange and those wearing garnet will do the same.
